

Terms and Conditions

Dr Beckles' charges fall broadly within those recommended by the British Medical Association, and are accepted by various private health insurers. Most consultations will be covered by medical insurance, but sometimes there are limits and exclusions. Some insurers have capped fees for consultations, so there may be an excess for which you may be responsible.

Dr Beckles reserves the right to levy supplementary charges for protracted or detailed further correspondence, whether by telephone, fax or email.

If, for any reason, he has to employ the services of a debt collection agency to recover fees, then the amount owed will be increased by 40% to cover the costs of the agency commission and VAT.